

It's Your Welfare

ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT THE PENSIONS AND SECURITY DEPARTMENT.

Send your questions to Mrs. Jean Spencer, 515 Administrative Building, Montgomery, Alabama.

I am sick and in need. I make $3.00 a week feeding cows. Can I qualify for aid to the handicapped since I am not 65?

Even though you are not well, you cannot qualify for aid to the handicapped (known as aid to the permanently and totally disabled) because you are able to do some work for pay.

Why do people over 65 who are in good health get a larger check than I do when I am a totally disabled person?

There is more State money for people over 65 who qualify for an old age pension than there is for other needy persons. By law, the money set aside for old age pensions cannot be used for anything else. A person's health does not affect his eligibility for an old age pension.

How old must a person be to receive aid to the permanently and totally disabled?

You can receive aid to the permanently and totally disabled if you are 18 or over and not yet 65 and meet the other requirements.

If I am drawing aid to the disabled, am I allowed to do any work for pay?

No, if you are able to work for pay, you are not considered totally and permanently disabled and, therefore, not eligible for aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

My application for aid to the permanently and totally disabled was denied because I am "rendering services to others." What does this mean?

This means taking care of a sick husband or homemaker that may include caring for children, or keeping house for someone besides yourself.

Who makes the final decision on whether I am permanently and totally disabled?

The State Review Team includes a licensed medical doctor and a medical social worker. This team decides whether a person meets the State's definition of total and permanent disability on the basis of a medical report from the person's own doctor and social facts from the person's own county department of pensions and security.

Is it a requirement to cooperate with Vocational Rehabilitation Service if I apply for aid to the permanently and totally disabled or aid to the blind?

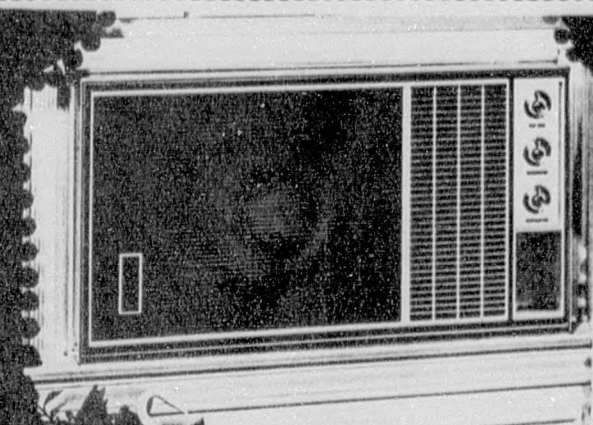

It is a requirement that you accept referral to Vocational Rehabilitation Service if it appears you may benefit from this program. Some people who apply for aid to the blind or aid to the permanently and totally disabled could not benefit from Vocational Rehabilitation Service and would not be referred; for example, a person who had such a severe heart condition he had to stay in bed most of the time.

Will the State pay board in a nursing home for anyone under 65 years old?

The State can pay for care in a licensed nursing home, within maximum allowances, for any person eligible for aid to the blind or aid to the permanently and totally disabled, as well as for an old age pension. For a temporary period, this service can be provided an eligible adult in an aid to dependent children family.

If I get $52.60 Social Security and am over 65, can I get a disability check from the Pensions and Security Department?

You are not eligible for aid to the disabled because you are over 65, but you may qualify for an old age pension. Get in touch with your county department.

REAPPORTIONMENT

Urban Counties Representation Increased By Court Decision

The United States Supreme Court's "reapportionment-by-population" decision will increase the weight and power of urban areas, especially the three largest counties, but does not reduce long-standing rural domination over legislative affairs.

There may also be further House reshuffling to give heavily populated areas heavier representation, because the high court specified the state must construct districts in both houses of its legislature as nearly of equal population as practicable.

But the Senate will feel the impact most greatly, whether the Legislature itself reapportions in conformity with the Supreme Court formula or leaves the job to federal judges. The Senate is still apportioned by area or geography, not population. The Legislature in 1962, acting under the watchful eye of the federal judiciary, reapportioned some senatorial districts, but not sufficiently to change traditional rural dominance. It did reapportion the House by what is known as the "equal proportions" method, but does not fully consummate a population-basis reshuffling.

The Supreme Court has made it clear that reapportionment must be done by the 1966 legislative elections, but left it up to a lower federal court panel of three judges to determine the working mechanics.

Jefferson County would have seven Senate seats instead of one. Mobile would go from one to three seats, and Montgomery from one to two. That would give the three counties 12 Senate seats among them. Four other large counties would be entitled to a Senate seat each, Madison, Tuscaloosa, Etowah and Calhoun. This would give 16 of 35 seats to seven large counties, just two seats less than a majority. Only 19 seats would be left to be distributed among the remaining 40 counties.

Thirty have less than 25,000 in population, nine less than 15,000. This makes it clear senatorial districts would have to be created with as many as four or five or perhaps six or seven counties, depending on geographical location. No senatorial district currently has more than three counties, and there are only five of these. There are 22 two-county districts, and eight one-county districts. Population disparity among the various districts is pronounced, Jefferson, the biggest, is 20 times as large as the smallest, Bibb and Perry.

Since the Supreme Court declared both houses must be reapportioned along population lines, smaller counties are naturally apprehensive. There is a good possibility that some of the counties will be deprived of a full seat in the lower house. There are 106 House seats, a constitutional requirement. If each representative comes from a single district, it would obviously take away a full-time member from some counties and join some smaller counties with other counties or parts of counties. If the House were districted as the Senate, it would take a district as large as some of the counties and join some smaller counties with other counties or parts of counties. If the House were districted as the Senate, it would take a district as large as some of the counties and join some smaller counties with other counties or parts of counties.

The American Legion of Elba and Brundage will have a ballgame on Sunday afternoon, June 21 at 2:30 o'clock at the new American Legion baseball field here in Elba.

The location of the Legion Field is on the property purchased by the organization some months ago, the old stock yard on Troy Highway.

ELBA'S STately COURTHOUSE - Though residents of Elba see the courthouse practically every day it still brings a warm feeling to see a picture of it. Especially is a picture of the courthouse interesting to the many readers of The Elba Clipper who continue to subscribe and to keep up with activities and progress of Elba.

This courthouse has seen good times and bad times. It survived the 1929 flood and continues to be a beautiful building in its old style architecture. The Elba courthouse could well be called a landmark and may it always be so. This picture was snapped at exactly one o'clock as can be seen by the town clock. The American flag floating in the gentle breeze in front of the building was contributed to the courthouse grounds early this year by the American Legion Post No. 42.
